No	Question	Answer
1	DESCRIPTION OF THE TECHNICAL CHARACTERISTICS OF THE REQUESTED TYPES OF LAMPS You are stating: The lamp manufacturer must have the following ISO certificates: ISO9001, ISO50001 I am of the opinion that stated is not, by no means, technical characteristic of the lamp, nor I see any relation between this condition and quality of lamps. Furthermore, by insisting on implementation of ISO 50001 standard by the manufacturer, absurd situation might happen, in which you would have to discard the offer of higher quality, more efficient and even cheaper, due to the fact that not all renowned manufacturers are implementing mentioned standard. Moreover, by doing so, you would be acting in contrast to ISO 50001 standard and you would cause impermeable damage to the Purchaser, i.e. your Municipality, because throughout the exploitation, which is next 25 years, you would be spending energy that is not cheap, and would be getting more expensive every day. By showing unnecessary care for energy management of lamp manufacturers, in long term you are renouncing your own energy management goals and you're causing detriment to the Municipal budget. I assume that such absurd request was result of negligence of someone who was helping with the preparation of technical documentation (or maybe not), thus, I'm kindly asking you to make necessary amendments and remove this request from the description of lamps.	ISO9001, ISO50001 or equivalent are required for this tender. Reason for this is that they are relevant standards concerning quality of product manufacture process (ISO 9001) and specifies requirements for management practices that are important to obtain improved energy performance (ISO50001).
